

Kira is fighting a life-threatening cancer

Kira is 19 years old and has been undergoing treatment for high-risk neuroblastoma since she was diagnosed at 11. She loves music and going to live gigs and spending time with her family and friends.

In July 2022, after eight years of treatment and relapsing eight times, Kira received the news that scans showed she had no evidence of active disease.

Kira and her family continue to fundraise for further treatments she might need as relapsed neuroblastoma is particularly difficult to treat.
